New-Orleans and Mobile Express, No. 19 Wall-st.

New York, September 30, 1852.

To the Ship Owners of the City of New-York —Gentlemen: We, the Riggers by trade and residents of the City of New York representing the whole body of this branch of the mechanical community, would respectfully ask that the rate of wages now paid, viz. $1.75 per diem, he advanced to the sum of $2. for the following reasons: That mechanics of different grades, such as Carpenters, Bricklayers, Caulkers, Salimakers and others are now delly receiving for their laber $2 to $2.25, the nature of which is not more arduous than that of a Rigger.

That our trade is of an extra hazadous nature; that it is attended with more than ordinary risk of life and limb, and further are at all times, when called into action, subject to the indemency of the weather, the nature of our business being such that delay is injurious to your interests.

That our occupation is not one which furnishes we with constant and steady employment, similar to our fellow-mechanics in other trades.

That verter the last five years, honce rent and provisions of every description have risen at least 25 per cent, and we find it utterly impossible to support our families with the wages we at present receive.

We would distinctly state that it is not the intention of the tind it utterly impossible to support our families with the wases we at present receive.

We would districtly state that it is not the intention of the trade to oppose the action of those to whom this is addressed, or by any act of our to incommode our employers.

We swaply sat, as a matter of justice, that we be placed on the same footing with our brother mechanics for the above reasons, and from the further fact that the rapid progress of the mercantile interests of this city, with which you and curselves are so clorely and necessarily connected, requires that prompt action and uncessing exertions should be used on our part when called upon to fulfill any orders you may from time to time be pleased to favor us with.

We therefore ask your candid and favorable consideration of the above subject, with a fall conviction on our part of its justice. Yours, respectfully.

To the members of the l. O. of O. F., under the jurisdiction of the Grand Lodge of the United States and British North America: The undersigned, publishers of fast Grand A. B. Greah's "Manual of Odd-Fellowahip," (copy of titlepage above), beg leave respectfully to submit the following remarks to your fraternal consideration.

Ever since the adoption of the revised work of the Order, there has been felt a great want of some conclus and complete Manual, which should evere an a compastion and guide to the inquiring brother, from his initiation, through every degree and station of the Octar, up to its highest grade and honors. Such a work should be attractive and interesting and, at the same time, perfectly reliable for the Reddity of its statements and the accuracy of its descriptions. The repeated expression of this want, from every part of our wide-ty extended brothershood, induced the author of the present week to enter upon its composition, and the undersigned to undertake its sublication. THE ODD-FELLOW'S MANUAL iy extended brotherhood, induced the author of the present work to enter upon its composition, and the undersigned to undertake its sublication.

The name of Bro. Greab is a sufficient guarantee for the excellence of the book, its correctness as to the work of the Order, and the value of the instructions. For many years a faithful and industricule laborer in every department of Odd-Fellowship, be has filled offices in both Grand and Subordistate Ledges and Encampments with honor to himself and advantage to the Order. In every part, therefore, he speaks of degrees and offices with which he has become familiar by long continued and intelligent service.

The work is now submitted to the brethren for their examination and patron as. It forms a large 12mo, volume of S84 pages, printed and bound in the very best manner. The fillustrations consist of two elegant seef engardings, is frontispiese and title page) with nearly one hundred highly finished wood engavings by the irret artists of the country.—They are from designs prepared expressly for this work by the celebrated artist and designer. Mr. Croome. We have spared no pains or expense to produce a work which, for mechanical execution and style of embellialments, will be ar companison with any similar work are published.

The work is placed at the price of one dollar and fifty cents, which is as low as any illustrated work of its size hitterto published in the United States.

We request the attention of the Order to the following recommendation of the Manual kyche Grand Representatives at the recent residen.
